Beginning at 12:00 noon on Sunday, September 14th, the Granby Land Trust and the Granby Artists Association invite you to join us at the spectacular Gamble Property on Loomis Street in North Granby for a lunchtime talk about Granby's waterways and the art they inspire. Following the lunch and talk, you will have the opportunity to tour the Gamble Property and see area artists working plein air, preparing artwork which may be included in the upcoming art show – Granby's Natural Waterscapes (Art Show will be from Nov. 6 - 27 at J. Vallee Brunelle Fine Art & Framing in Granby Center).

The spectacular Gamble Property at 253 Loomis Street in North Granby is privately owned by Land Trust board member Jamie Gamble. This approximately 200-acre property features a pond and stream and is one of Granby's truly beautiful places.

The Granby Land Trust's Art Show theme for this year – Granby's Natural Waterscapes – highlights the importance of Granby's waterways and the need to preserve the ecological life of these beautiful places, ranging from the Salmon Brook to Ring Brook on the Land Trust's Mary Edwards Mountain Property to Trout Pond in the McLean Game Refuge.
